

Nursing on the Net: Health Care Resources You Can Use

Author: Tony Nguyen, MLIS, AHIP, Access and Communications Coordinator
National Network of Libraries of Medicine, Southeastern/Atlantic Region, University of Maryland, Baltimore

Background

- Online health information is prevalent for nurses and nursing students.
- Free, credible, and current resources to support evidence-based nursing, nursing informatics, practice issues, guidelines, and documentation can be found online through trusted websites.
- Government Organizations and programs are able to collaborate with nursing initiatives to transform healthcare.

Methods

An extensive search for free online resources to support nursing was conducted and evaluated on the criteria of topic, authority, accuracy, objectivity, coverage, and currency.

Results

Over 100 government, non-profit organizations, and academic institutions were identified to support evidence-based nursing, nursing informatics, practice issues, guidelines, and documentation. Of the resources identified, the following are shared:

- PubMed & PubMed for Nurses (Training Guide)
- PubMed Health
- National Information Center on Health Services Research and Health Care Technology
- National Institute of Nursing Research
- AHRQ – QI Guide on Improved Nursing Care
- Equator Network
- Virginia Henderson Global Nursing e-Repository

Conclusions

While only a handful of the resources are shared within this poster presentation, a large number of the websites identified are shared in the Nursing on the Net course: <https://nnlm.gov/training/nursing>

This project has been funded in whole or in part with Federal funds from the National Library of Medicine (NLM), National Institutes of Health (NIH), under cooperative agreement No. UG4LM012340 with the University of Maryland, Baltimore. The content is solely the responsibility of the authors and does not necessarily represent the official views of the National Institutes of Health.

UNIVERSITY of MARYLAND
Health Sciences and Human Services - Bldg 20

See all resources at nvlm.edu | Region 1